

Dixie Hariston, LMSW

Dixie Hairston graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Sociology and from the University of Houston with a Master of Social Work degree specializing in political social work. Previous to CHILDREN AT RISK, she worked for an arts education advocacy organization in Washington, DC and has experience advocating for women and children on a local, state and national level. Dixie is a native Texas and is passionate about advocating for policies that create safer environments for the state's most vulnerable children. Dixie leads our anti-sex trafficking initiatives out of our North Texas office.
